Read this story about Charlie. Then do the exercises on page 4.

The Day Charlie Forgot His Key

Everyone in my family is busy and we all do different things at different times. So we each have a key for the house. I have one, too, but my mum is usually home when I get there.

Last Thursday, I forgot my key. I had got a new bag, and in the morning, when I was putting my books into it, I forgot to put the key in, too. It was a bad day to forget the key!

Mum works in a bank. That day, they had a problem with the computers, and she had to stay late. Dad was in London all week for his job. My brother, Bob, had a tennis match, and my sister, Teresa, went to her ballet class after school.

When I got home, no one was there, and I couldn't get into the house. I took everything out of my bag and looked in all my pockets. There was no key!

Mrs Pappas, in the flat beside ours, had just come out of hospital, and I didn't want to worry her. So, I went to my grandmother's house. It's not far away. We called Mum to tell her I was at Grandma's. Then Grandma gave me a snack, and I did a bit of homework. After that, we played some games. Grandma doesn't have a computer, so we played Monopoly and some other board games. I had a really good time!
